At the age of 12, Callum formed his own company named dwho1995 Entertainment; a content creation company that was founded as dwho1995 on 10 November 2010 while doing stuffs via Windows Movie Maker.

Callum's first programme that developed in 2010 was 'Doctor Who: The Movies Game', later cancelled in 2011 but redeveloped as of August 2015 and it will schedule to be premiered in 2017 after it become known as 'Doctor Who Animated Adventures'.

His first Youtube appearance takes place in spring 2011 was dwho19951; later disappeared a few years later. Other channel on YouTube he created, including DWFanAndIdents1 (that made dwho1995 become DWFanAndIdents Company, according to his own mythology) and the current version of dwho1995EntertainmentUK since 2013 (originally dwho1995picturesUK).

His first Twitter appearance made since 2011, including the current name of @PresFanGood1 since 2013, and it has over 900 followers since 2015.

In October 2012, dwho1995 Pictures; his first film production label; was formed. Later in 2014, DWFanAndIdents Company renamed dwho1995 Entertainment after his decision being taken in 2013. As the result later in 2015, DWFanAndIdents Studios was renamed dwho1995 Studios on Christmas Day.

In about early-2015, Callum made his Facebook appearance and has over 100 friends so far since January 2016.

A campaign has been launched in late-2015 was "James Bond Distribution Rights –Vote for Disney" as he brought to spark to bring Disney to become a James Bond distributor instead of Warner Brothers due to denial.

He's currently under attack from the trolls: Cavan Day, Rob Francis (the owner of TV Live), Francis Taylor, Callum Walker, and Tyler Needles (unable to identify his surname).

His dreams of becoming a rebrand developer for the rebrand BBC One and BBC Two; along it, his current dream girl is Jenna Coleman, a former Doctor Who actor who splits up with her ex-boyfriend in 2015.

Callum also become a musician when his first music was created, including the future MGM fanfare and his dance-party song (Disney/James Bond-related music) entitled 'From Disney With James Bond' for the ongoing campaign.

His ideas also come up, after The Light Between Oceans could be the last ever Touchstone film after 32 years and it's also the final DreamWorks film under the original agreement with Disney since 2009, that Touchstone should go to Warner Brothers in the future despite the fact that they've co-produce the film together was 'The Prestige'; released in 2006; starring Christian Bale and Michael Caine.

Callum's career is at his best.

And that's my life story.

My next statement will be on 2nd September about what will happen to Touchstone in the aftermath of the release of 'The Light Between Oceans'. Thank You ☺
